

PATH FORWARD CONSULTING

SHIFTING BEHAVIOR FROM
INTENTION TO IMPACT

ALLISON V. MANSWELL, CPLP

Allison is currently the Founder & Chief Results Officer of Path Forward Consulting. Her firm provides consulting, training, and coaching services in the areas of talent management, organizational effectiveness, leadership development, diversity and inclusion. In this role, she works with executives, leaders and employees in government agencies, non-profit organizations, small, mid-sized and Fortune-ranked companies like: US Forest Service, Harvard University, Yale University, National Audubon Society, Exelon, Nielsen and Liberty Mutual Insurance.

Allison is a seasoned HR professional with an MBA in Leadership. She also holds the industry credential as a Certified Professional in Learning and Performance (CPLP) from the Association for Talent Development. She has a Bachelor's degree in Justice and Law Enforcement. Her career began with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Revenue Canada and journalist roles in television, radio and print. Her career path has afforded her opportunities with progressive levels of responsibility ranging from HR generalist to senior leadership of leadership development talent management and organizational effectiveness. She has demonstrated results in strategy development and oversight, large enterprise project management and P&L responsibility.

Allison's third book is called Listen In: Crucial Conversations on Race in the Workplace. This is a ground-breaking combination of fiction and business consulting that gives insight into the personal experiences that occur behind the data and attempts at best practices. It provides readers with a unique opportunity for understanding as well as strategies for career growth and interventions that move our nation forward. Allison's combination of personal diversity and international experience provides an additional advantage in her interactions and understanding of the global economy. Most importantly, Allison has three sons who provide insight on generational differences as a critical diversity element and inspire her every day.